

NO CHANCE FOR COLTS IN ANY OTHER LEAGUE

Many Patrons Think Richmond Is Entitled to Better Class of Baseball.

SOME FACTS AND FIGURES

Many Reasons Why It Would Be Impossible to Go Into Higher Company.

BY CABELL F. FITZGERALD, Sporting Editor.

It is out of the question even to think of much less considering seriously the possibility of "probability" of Richmond ever securing a berth in any other league than the Virginia, and while such a suggestion from the Sporting Editor of this newspaper may be considered idle talk by many, there is nevertheless a growing sentiment among many who follow the national game that the baseball lovers of this community deserve representation in a circuit where every city holds up its own end.

To think as many do, that the State League could not exist without Richmond is displaying an ignorance of conditions. Even down in the circuit, it is paying those who back its club, and many times this season the proportionate receipts by the Richmond management has been larger for the first three days of the week than the visiting club here has received in the three closing days. This sounds like a remarkable statement, but it is true, nevertheless, and the tip is given by an unquestionable authority.

One question naturally arises in speaking of entering another league, and this is whether or not the local fans would support a club in the admission of the double what it is. The answer is, in the opinion of the writer, that the crowds here, with the admission fee increased, would be reduced to a third, or less than a third, of what they are now.

A Washington sporting writer, who witnessed one of the Saturday games recently, when there were at least 16,000 people in Broad Street Park, said afterwards in conversation with the Sporting Editor of The Times-Dispatch: "It is seldom we see a crowd as big as this. Why don't you get in a bigger league where you can see better ball playing for your money?"

The average crowd in Washington is probably not much larger than it is in Richmond. The visitor changes his mind when the rate of admission was explained to him.

It is extremely doubtful whether the patrons of the game, even at the same price, would continue their interest if foreign cities were brought in. Rivalry among the cities is not the success of any league. Those who suggest going into higher classes company must forget the venture made by Jake Wells, and the disaster that befell the Atlantic League.

Because of this, now and then, that on Saturday to see a game of ball in Richmond is no reason why people here should be "big-headed," and start knocking the Virginia League. Of course, we deserve a good minor league ball, and we do see it. Salaries are liberal, and the national commission has allowed a class C franchise to the magnates in this circuit, representing a population scarcely over 300,000. If that is ample proof that we appreciate the quality of the ball.

In the Eastern League, and there is no chance of our ever landing there, is a Class AA organization, composed of eight clubs, representing Baltimore, Buffalo, Newark, Montreal, Jersey City, Toronto, Providence and Rochester. The combined circuit population is nearly 2,500,000. With these figures before him, the reader may compare the two leagues, and will readily realize why the only conclusion to reach is that we should be content with what we have in situation, and do all we can to boost the Virginia League.

Long trips are necessities when teams representing several States are formed into a league, and sometimes a club is absent for several weeks at a time. This serves to decrease interest, and when a city has a losing team, the management is often in sore straits when it comes to financing. Here we have baseball three days in every week, and some times for an extra day. We're lucky, and those who have formed the idea that we are not getting our money's worth will come to know it.

Each year the class of ballplayers who seek position in Virginia League proves. This is due to the fact that the owners and managers favor giving the public the best they can afford. Increased attendance means increased salaries and better players. There has not been a season since the league organized that the patronage has not increased, and there has not been a season when those in charge have not shown their appreciation.

No, there is no chance for a change. We don't want to need it, it will not have it. The day Richmond pulls out of the present circuit, if that day ever comes, some other city will buy our present franchise, and when we make a failure somewhere else, it will be impossible to beg our way back into the good graces of those who will then have charge. Then we will be entirely without representation in baseball. That would be a calamity.

MARATHON RACE FOR STATE FAIR

With the Virginia State Fair about eight weeks off, the management is exerting every effort to arrange a program of athletic events which will eclipse anything of the kind ever held in Virginia. The most likely proposition being considered embodies the advisability of holding a Marathon race. If the material for the event can be found in Richmond, or in Virginia, there is no doubt but that the project will be carried out.

Owing to the fact that the men are out of training in summer, and many athletes are at present away on vacations, it is impossible to tell at this time how many entries there will be. The Marathon will start and finish in front of the grandstand. The course will probably be laid off over a triangular course, having about 3.4 miles to the lap, thus making the regulation distance of 26.4 miles.

The start will probably be made at 10:30 o'clock in the morning, so that the runners, those who finish, will return to the Fair Grounds in the afternoon. If successful the race will probably prove one of the most interesting features of the fair, and it is believed sufficient interest can be aroused to make it go.

Another event will be the tug-of-war. This is seldom seen in America, being of English patronage. Other events will be relays, hurdles, sprints, standing and running high and broad jumps, pole vaults, hammer and discus throwing and shot-putting.

A PRIZE-RING COMEDY

PHILADELPHIA, PA., August 8.—A is a very level-headed fellow, and he did not understate the fact that Johnnie is a big, strong man, who is a good boxer and a man who has been able to go through some hard contests with very tough fellows. Jeffries seems to think very little of Johnson's skill as a boxer, but those who have closely watched the latter believe that in this vicinity Jeffries credit for being a pretty good lad with his hands. It is likely that Jeffries bases his ability to whip Johnson on the latter's lack of experience. In other words, he thinks that from the time they enter the ring, if they ever do, he will have Johnson's goat. Perhaps he will, but that remains to be seen. If Johnson is afraid of Jeffries when they get in the ring, then the beating of Johnson will be a very serious proposition, for the negro will have all the natural advantages, and they are sure to tell in a long ring fight.

SAYS HE WILL BE THERE

NEW YORK, August 8.—Bids for the Jeffries-Johnson fight for the heavyweight championship are expected in numbers within the coming ten days, and the pots of pugilism will again be going about arranging a fight for the Championship. And as a matter of fact Johnson is not much behind him in doing about arranging a fight for the Championship. Jeffries is a very successful in keeping apart while seeming to want to catch up to each other. Up to date the match is as far from being made as it was when Jeffries first went on his recent theatrical tour. Then it was announced that Johnson would be a very serious proposition, for the negro will have all the natural advantages, and they are sure to tell in a long ring fight.

While Berger is anxious to select the best battleground possible from a viewpoint of training, he has added departure abroad last Thursday, made it plainly understood that he would greatly prefer to fight in the United States.

"This country is the place to fight for the championship," Jeffries told Berger with discussion of the coming fight will be made for her great attempt against him August 12 at the Grand Circuit races. George Ketchum will have a real and far as "chain" mer who will pace Belle. Billy Andrews will drive the speedy stepper.

Hamburg Belle is a six-year-old mare, by Axworthy, out of the run of Sallie Simmons. She belongs to Edward and Joseph Madden, of Hamburg Place, Lexington, and last year won the unbeaten. When she won the Charter Oak Stakes of $10,000 at Hartford she trotted the three fastest heats on record for a mare, the third mile, 2:04 1-4, being also the fastest third heat ever negotiated in a race.

Her first attempt this season took place last week at Detroit, when she trotted to a new record of 2:03 3-4, over a track that was not as fast and in the clear, the third mile, 2:03 3-4. The mile at Detroit was given her merely to key her up for a grand effort at North Randall, her driver, W. J. Andrews, having determined weeks ago that North Randall was the first track over which he should make his best attempt with her.

For the Live Stock and Fair Company in anticipation of a wonderful performance, is doing all it can to have a track which will be smooth as a billiard table and fast as lightning. Hamburg Belle arrived from Detroit in nice order, and all that is required to make a record for the North Randall is the first year of its existence, that will stand for some time, is a warm, still afternoon.

In the stable with Hamburg Belle there also arrived this year's wonder, fast three-year-old, Nancy McKerron, who won her race at Detroit in 2:10 1-2, which was the fastest mile trotted by a three-year-old this early in the season. She looks like a champion, and she has every right to be one, for she is by John A. McKerron, 2:04 1-2, out of the former turf mare, Nancy Hanks, 2:04. At North Randall next week she will meet in the three-year-old sweepstakes ten other great colts.

NEW WORLD'S AUTO RECORD ON TRACK

Chevrolet Drives Big Car Fifty Miles in 51:19 on Fort Erie Course.

LORIMER BADLY HURT

Plunged Through a Fence and Crushed Under Racing Machine.

BUFFALO, N. Y., August 8.—F. S. Lorimer, driving a forty-horsepower Chalmers-Detroit racer in the Canadian championship at 100 miles over the Fort Erie race-track, plunged through the fence in the ninety-sixth mile yesterday afternoon and was seriously injured. The driver was found unconscious pinned beneath the wreck of his machine. He was revived later and taken to Buffalo in an automobile.

The event was won by Chevrolet, the French driver, who covered the 100 miles in 1:44:32 1-5. He shattered the world's record for fifty miles over a circular track held by himself, covering the first fifty miles in fifty-one minutes and nineteen seconds. The previous record was fifty-one minutes and twenty-two seconds made recently at Grand Rapids.

Another feature yesterday was the three-mile race between Barney Oldfield and Walter Christie. Oldfield, in a Benz, won the race by four lengths, the time being 2:54. Christie in a mile exhibition lowered the track record of 54 1-5 seconds to 1:44:32 1-5. To a flying start he covered the oval in 54 seconds flat. The summaries:

Five-mile handicap—Chevrolet (45 seconds), first; Ed Joh (one minute), second; Barney Oldfield (scratch), third. Time, 2:54.

Canadian championship, 100 miles—Won by Chevrolet. Time, 1:44:32 1-5. Eril Lorimer out of the race in ninety-sixth mile.

Breaks Record.

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 8.—All records for importations of manufacturers' material into the United States were broken during the fiscal year 1909 according to the Bureau of Statistics in a statement made public to-day.

Raw wool, raw cotton, raw silk, fibres, hides and skins, India rubber, tobacco, tin, copper, iron, steel, and certain articles included under the general group "chemicals, drugs and dyes," are the principal articles imported for manufacturing; and in nearly all these the quantity imported in 1909 exceeded that of any earlier year. There are a few exceptions. Raw wool, for example, shows a slightly higher quantity imported in the fiscal year 1907, pending the enactment of the Dingley law.

Improvements also will be made wherever needed in the clubhouse, grandstand and field stands arrangements. Large new score boards are to be built and provision made so that all spectators will be kept continuously informed of the progress of the big races. The lighting of the course will be even more extensive than before and the oval will be refitted with a special preparation to hold dust and add speed.

CHASE UMPIRE UP A TREE

FREELAND, PA., August 8.—An unexpected climax growing out of baseball rivalry and enthusiasm ended the game on the Jeddo field yesterday when Umpire John McLaughlin was mobbed by the players and compelled to seek refuge in a tree, where he held his position until he was rescued by a policeman.

The game was the fifth of the series between a team representing the players and a team representing the umpires, in the hope of winning a trophy offered by General Manager Loomis, of the Major League, when the score stood 1 to 1 in the fourth inning, when the umpire boys' nine, aggravated by a decision of the umpire, attacked him with bats and balls, and followed him from the field to the woodland, where he took refuge in a tall chestnut tree.
